Summary: (machine translated) Beautiful, mostly little water lime canyon; at present still very sparsely furnished; half-day tour; well combinable with Rio Cadramazzo inferiore, Patok, etc.; partly exposed access (path not always well visible); clean water; south exposure; 3mm neoprene sufficient; Attention! In spring, processionary caterpillars nest on the pine trees (hairs are skin-recent and can even cause allergic reactions when inhaled); worthwhile after rainfall; shuttle car recommended because the access would otherwise take almost as long as the tour itself; Terra Rossa superiore also possible (full-day tour!)
Hydrology:
Access: (machine translated) Coming from Tarvisio, you can either take the SS13 (Canal Valley federal road) to the village of Dogna or take the highway (Pontebba exit) + a few km. federal road. In Dogna follow the signs/road over the Fella towards the Dogna Valley. Immediately after the bridge over the Fella there is a large gravel parking place on the right. Here you follow the road further into the valley through the small tunnel to the village of Roncheschin. At the bridge with a small hydroelectric powerhouse that leads over the Rio Terra Rossa, you can check the water level (if the water comes over the entire width of the last artificial step, it is not advisable to go there). After the check, turn right (before the sign "Chiutdipupe") and drive to the group of houses near Torrente Dognas, where you leave the first car. With the second car, go back towards Dogna and turn right just before the bridge over the Fell. After 3-4 houses turn right again towards "Chiout Pupin". Follow the steep asphalted mountain road until the exit (because of the deep water channels you need some ground clearance). At the exit of the road at Chiout Pupin there is limited parking (take care of locals!).(Vehicle transfer about 3Km).
Approach: (machine translated) From the parking lot near the small group of houses, hiking trail 602 now leads up into the forest slightly above the road. Follow the path, past a material ropeway support and a ruin with hiking markings to the rock face. Here a metal footbridge leads over an exposed area. Then there is a fork where you leave the main path to the right. From here you follow the not always easily visible water catchment path with little difference in altitude to the first open (mostly dry) streambed. Attention, this is not yet the main stream. On the other side of the stream, near the smaller trees, you will find a steep chute that does not take long but is a bit tedious to climb. A short exposed traverse follows with a beautiful view into the valley. Attention, do not continue up the open ridge but follow the path (see rope marking on the tree) slightly descending to the main stream below the large rock face. Entry at approx. 830m.

Tour: (machine translated)

Rio Terra Rossa is a short open and south-facing rappel canyon with mostly little water. There are few downclimb/walking passages between the rappels. Before a short narrow section with wire railing, there is a possible emergency exit on the left. Here you rappel 5m into the narrows. Shortly after, there is a 3m rappel (! Possibly rappel both steps together). After the narrows the canyon opens up and you are faced with a 20m rappel with a sharp edge (or new belaystation on the left outside the watercourse). Two shorter rappel steps follow before you come to the beautiful 3-person final cascade (20m/35m/25m). The belay stations are placed a bit exposed here. After the last 25m waterfall you stand in the gravelled water drainage basin at about 620m. From here it is about 20min. to the road. It is descended at the wall first on the right and then on the left side of the stream over a helpful wire rope. The rest of the route is first in the streambed and from an artificial step right on a path that leads in a short time to the road bridge / shuttle car.

Return: (machine translated)

Just before the road/bridge you get out of the creek on the left. Then follow the road briefly down to the shuttle car at the Dogna stream .

All pitches ok so far (Edelrid Armid sling at C35 new), as always in spring some fat nests of caterpillars (machine translated)
