Summary: (machine translated)

Dry canyon with many smaller rappels

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)

Either from Castellane on the Route Napoleon on the D 952 in a westerly direction along the north of the Verdon Gorge or from the A 51 - Autoroute du Val de Durance exit at Saint-Paul-les-Durance and on the D 952 in an easterly direction to Moustiers-Sainte-Marie. Park your car in the parking lot above the village.

Approach: (machine translated)

Above the small cemetery (with the chapel Sainte-Anne) we start on the Chemin de Courchon (also called Voie Romaine) in southern direction (signpost "La Palud"). The path leads us to the plateau southeast of Moustiers, finally with great views in large switchbacks. Once on the plateau, we continue to follow the track. From the left, the road from Moustiers comes up over Notre Dame de Beauvoir and a few hundred meters further we come to a junction of several tracks (939m a.s.l.). Here we turn right off the slope and go down pathless in a southeasterly direction into the wide streambed that leads us down into the Venascle, the last meters with some rappel.

Tour: (machine translated)

18 rappel, varied despite dryness

Return: (machine translated)

A few meters before you meet the water-bearing Angouire, up to the right and follow the newly created path to Moustiers. It leads us directly to the chapel of Sainte-Anne and our car.
The path from the exit to Moustiers has been recreated in parts to avoid the disputes with the landowners over whose land was previously exited along the Angouire.

Automatisch importiert von Descente-Canyon.com für Canyon Vénascle Petit filet d'eau au départ, la messe s'annonçait bien cependant après la deuxième cascade plus rien... Hormis dans l'étroiture (qui vaut le détour) les vasques étaient vides... Équipements okay à l'exception d'un petit rappel sur piton dans l'étroiture qui mériterait un deuxième point (difficile de juger de l'état du piton) (Quelle: <https://www.descente-canyon.com/canyoning/canyon-debit/279/observations.html>)
