Summary: (machine translated) Short canyon in the Belluno National Park (canyoning prohibited!); mostly two old 8mm pitons with slings; some nice pools that invite you to jump or slide; clean water; narrow adventurous access path with deep views; large spiders; tick area; canyon is deeply cut; water drainage in the lower part; good to combine with Val de Piero.
Hydrology:
Access: (machine translated) From Belluno on the SS203 direction Agordo. In Cordevole valley at the locality "La Stanga" (Km VII 13) park at the homonymous restaurant (large parking lot on the left after the restaurant).
Approach: (machine translated) approx. 40min Directly behind the restaurant, follow the steep trail nr. 502 for a short while until you reach a water house with an antenna. Here at the inconspicuous crossing follow the path/trail to the left behind the cottage. The path is steep at the beginning and goes up parallel to the road. From the rock wall the path becomes more and more exposed. From here the path leads parallel far above the canyon to the entry at about 600m (if the path is very wet or someone is not free from giddiness the access can be a problem).
Tour: (machine translated) approx. 1,5.2h After the adventurous access come the most beautiful slides/jumps. If someone doesn't want to jump/slide here, it is also possible to rappel down. Attention! Be sure to check all the pools beforehand. The canyon has been adequately equipped and should be possible even at higher water levels. However, there is no emergency exit because in most places the canyon walls lead 200-300m vertically upwards. In the first half are almost all rappelling points up to max. 25m. After the last high abseil point of about 20m, a large clamping block/rock on the right must be climbed over. After that the canyon is only a hiking canyon until the dam wall. At the dam wall you can rappel right or downclimb left at the water drainage. At a small ladder on the left side you can get out or make a 5m jump into the last beautiful pool before the road bridge.
Return: (machine translated) 15min To get back to the parking lot less conspicuously, it is best to go under the road bridge to the riverbed. Then turn left shortly back to the parking lot.
