Summary: (machine translated)

Narrow gorge in wooded surroundings - used to be commercially run. Rock very slippery.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)

SS52 until Forni di Sopra. In the hamlet of Vico, before the bridge over Rio Tolina, turn right and follow the narrow road until Rio Tolina. Park here.

Approach: (machine translated)

Go through some narrow streets to the Hotel Centrale, here follow the markings to the right. Climb steeply up a road with a driving ban to a small power station - entry here.

Tour: (machine translated)

* 15m rappel from tree left\n * 4m downclimb\n * 20m rappel over two waterfall steps from anchor left, exit of gorge and creek mouth from left\n * 4m rappel from jammed tree trunk left of big rock\n * Longer slippery hiking and downclimb until the gorge narrows again (escape possibility right). \n * 8m rappel from tree right\n * nice 3m slide\n * 2m jump\n * 7m rappel from hook with chain anchor right - a chain anchor is far right on the gorge wall but hardly reachable\n * 15m rappel from 8mm hook right (set by us). After 7m right a hardly reachable chain anchor\n * 15m from tree with sling left\n * 6m rappel over clamping block - chain anchor far back right\n * Big pipe right, we broke off here and climbed about 50hm to the road above. The gorge went but still further. According to my information, there should be no rappel > 15m, however, has apparently changed some in the gorge. Therefore, better to enter with enough ropes and complete drilling equipment.
