Résumé: (traduction alternative) Alpine rappel canyon in southeastern orientation. Only possible jumps at a time.\n
Hydrologie:
Accès: (traduction alternative) Either from Oberammergau/Ettal up the Ammer Valley in an easterly direction via Graswang, past Linderhof Castle, over the border (D/A) and on to the Hotel Ammerwald (BMW conference center);\nor via Reutte (Lechtal) up to the Plansee lake, past which you continue in the direction of Graswang, Oberammergau to the aforementioned Hotel Ammerwald.
Approche: (traduction alternative) From the parking lot at the Hotel Ammerwald (1080m a.s.l.) we take the slope in northern direction and then follow the signpost "Schützensteig-Hochplatte". In several serpentines it goes up in the sparse coniferous forest. Then it moves with a slight gradient in a northerly direction and we reach the wooden footbridge over the stream coming down from the Hirschwäng-Alpe (1525m a.s.l.) (entry).
Tour: (traduction alternative) First it goes in this orographic. right side stream of the Schafblassenbach over 5 rappel in relatively open terrain in an easterly direction down to the Schafblassenbach (approx. 50 min.). \nIn the Schafblassenbach - also relatively open - the route continues in a southeasterly direction (another 7 rappels).\nAt the wall remains there is a first good exit possibility to the right onto the old water pipe. However, it makes sense to continue descending until the exit at the metal railing.
Retour: (traduction alternative) At the second wall with iron railings, turn right out onto the slope and back to the car.

All ok, not really worthwhile. (traduction alternative)

Due to the rains slightly higher water level than normal, but not high. A lot of climbing down and slippery passages. Certainly a good option after rains, because otherwise rather unspectacular. (traduction alternative)

This canyon would have a lot of potential if it had been redesigned in places. The Hirschwängbach is a beautiful canyon on the border between Germany and Austria. Access begins at the Hotel Ammerwald near Reutte in Tyrol, close to the Plansee lake. The hiking trail towards Berggasthaus Bleckenau leads over a small wooden bridge over a branch of the Schafblassenbach. A waterfall can be seen to the left of the wooden bridge, below the bridge is the entry point to the canyon. The canyon has many downclimbs and occasionally has the character of aquatic hikes between the abseils. These downclimbs make the canyon challenging. The rappels have the following heights: 12m, 15m, 10m, 10m, 15m, 10m, 10m, 15m, 10m, 12m. Not all anchor points were in good condition, one was no longer usable. However, there were either natural anchor points available or downclimbing/running around was possible. It is recommended to have a 35m-40m rope or a drill and rakes with you. The canyon has potential, but could be redone in some places. Be careful when downclimbing: The rock is mostly grippy but sometimes very slippery. There are often rocks in the water that are difficult to recognize. Video of the tour: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=tTbQKPil8Fw> (traduction alternative)
