Résumé: (traduction alternative) Forest canyon with slippery terrain, hardly secured, but with a beautiful final waterfall
Hydrologie:
Accès: (traduction alternative) in Kufstein turn off the B175 onto Thierseestraße and up to the village of the same name (6.2 km) Continue in the direction of Landl to Schmiedtal (another 4 km). At the "Schmied im Tal" we park the car for the exit. With the second car (alternatively E-MTB) 160m back on the tarred road and then left up to Sonnberg. A few meters before the first rightward hairpin bend after the houses of Sonnber park the second car in a larger parking bay (2km from the main road to here).
Approche: (traduction alternative) Now the first serpentine to the right, a little later a left turn. On the evenly rising forest road it now always goes west until the next (right) serpentine (from the upper car to here 1.7 km). We now follow the slope for another 180m and then take the path that runs towards the Traisbach stream. As soon as the path reaches the slope above the streambed and turns NNW, we look for a steep and pathless descent down into the streambed. Rope down from trees if necessary. It is not worth going further along the trail and looking for a more comfortable descent, as the descent options hardly get any better and this route then has to be climbed back down in the slippery streambed.
Tour: (traduction alternative) Downclimb many steps, if necessary also with rope hoist from trees. Then the 35m inclined rappel. Now follow several rappel, but basically from trees. Only towards the exit the gorge deserves its name. Here you can also find bolts, but they do not always make a reliable impression. The highlight is then the final waterfall (25m).
Retour: (traduction alternative) 2 steps down, then right out onto a forest path (right up is a few meters to the viewpoint of the final waterfall) and left down to the lower car.

Most of the tour is downclimbed/hiked in the stream. Lots of pushing. Few anchors, but these are of good quality. A few rapid links are missing and could be retrofitted. (traduction alternative)
